Police Integration

How does it work?

Once you're logged in, the ICOP PRO HD in-car system and the Prima Elite body camera automatically synchronize together over Wi-Fi. The ICOP PRO HD records video from each of the mobile cameras and stores it onto the hard drive until video is ready to be wirelessly downloaded back at the station.

Before Prima Elite body camera video is transferred to the in-car system, all recordings are captured and stored in the camera's internal SD card.

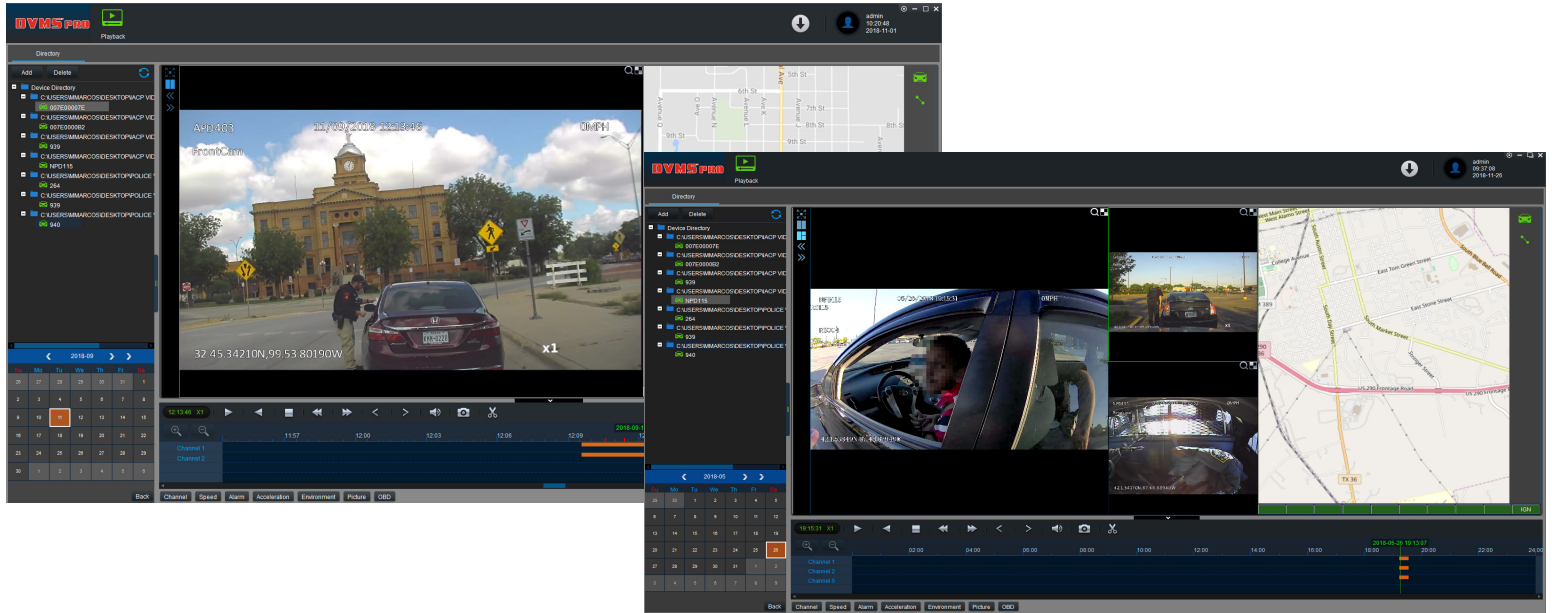

As soon as the officer is back within the Wi-Fi range, video from the Prima Elite body camera is automatically uploaded to the ICOP PRO system. Body camera recordings are then synchronized with the matching in-car recordings.

When the vehicle returns to the station, it immediately connects to the facility's wireless network and downloads recorded files to the database. Files recorded by both systems are synchronized and played back simultaneously to provide the full chain of events. Videos can then be easily located, managed, and reviewed using the DVMS PRO video management software.

Our newly redesigned DVMS PRO unifies the in-car and body camera's recorded files for synchronized playback - giving you the ultimate digital case management system.
